Dear Hiring Manager,

I am excited to apply for a marketing role on your team. I hold a B.S. in Business Administration with a concentration in Marketing from UNC Charlotte (3.85 GPA), and I have put that training to work creating content, running outreach and supporting campaigns for real brands.

As a Virtual Project Specialist for The Growing Artist, I led the brand's digital growth from start to finish. I planned and published reels, carousels and posts for TikTok and Instagram, managed all email outreach, researched and contacted potential collaborators, and improved the website's layout and navigation. The work taught me to keep a consistent brand voice while testing what actually engages an audience.

At Berk Communications, I supported launches and seasonal campaigns for national consumer brands. For The Cheesecake Factory, I coordinated National Cheesecake Day TV segments and supported media tastings for new flavors and the 2025 menu, which earned reviews in TODAY, Tasting Table and PureWow. For Gran Coramino Tequila, I built the influencer list for a National Tequila Day nail-salon activation in Brooklyn. I also researched each client's competitors and turned what I found into holiday and seasonal pitch angles, which showed me how earned media and marketing work together.

I also bring a practical, results-first mindset from my current role supervising commercial job sites, where deadlines are real and communication has to be clear. I would bring that same energy and organization to your marketing team.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I would welcome the chance to talk about how I can help your team, and you can see examples of my work at gregfyfeportfolio.com.

Sincerely,

Gregory Fyfe
